

Palm House

A pleasant afternoon was spent with other members of the Outings Group who travelled by coach to the Palm House to listen to a varied programme of musical items played by The Duke of Lancaster's Regiment and solo vocals where performed by Danielle Louise Thomas and Steve Fazackerly (brother of John, who is a Formby U3A member). The programme consisted of a Medley of Battles followed by a Stevie Wonder medley and then lots of Christmas Carols and festive Christmas music. The journey home was delightful in that we were treated to a glimpse of the festive

Harrock and Parbold

The December Fell Walking Group didn't include any actual fells, but we did a couple of hills: Harrock and Parbold. We started from the top of Parbold Hill and headed over to High Moor and then to the windmill on the top of Harrock Hill. We skirted the quarry and after crossing fields we headed for the church at the bottom of Parbold Hill. A walk along the canal and up the Fairy Glen brought us back to the parking place.

St. Peter's Church Hall, Woolton

In the December Newsletter, members were asked to write in to say what their group had been doing and to share the U3A experience with others, so here goes!

Just before Christmas, a friend of Joan, one of the Ukelele Group members, invited us to play at a singalong at St Peter's Church Hall, Woolton. She had only recently started this, inspired by Joan's enthusiasm for the group. It has proved to be very popular with a steadily increasing membership; people making new friends, renewing old acquaintances, lots of social spin offs and generally just getting out mixing and having fun.

It was a much bigger audience than we had imagined. They were very welcoming and hospitable, smiling and clapping in all the right places; all very encouraging. For any group that entertains, Woolton is the place to go! During the interval, we looked at all the Beatles memorabilia people had sent in over the years, marking the famous meeting 60 years ago, this year, a letter from Paul and one from Cynthia Lennon; lots of photographs of the fete. A lady I spoke to pointed out her photo, taken when she was a little girl in her frilly frock, bows in her hair, sitting with others on a lorry. Apparently they wanted to recreate the event but Health & Safety vetoed the idea as it is now considered dangerous to sit on the back of an open lorry. How did we survive? Another lady I spoke to eventually placed her hand on my arm saying, "I'm sorry love, I haven't heard a word you said as I didn't put my hearing aids in." I was puzzled as she had come to hear us play, but maybe she just forgot them!

With all the excitement of playing where the Beatle had, I was on a high when waiting to receive my Christmas 'phone call from abroad. You know the format, "Tell Nana what you did in the Christmas Concert; played the ukulele." My heart began to sink. I hadn't realised that this as the chat is usually about football. "How wonderful," I said. "What did you play?" "Silent night," came the answer. Now my heart really sank as I had experienced some difficulty with that piece. As I said, "how marvellous," I was really thinking "If I'm spared, I've another year to polish this one off!" The final downer was hearing him say "What's Beatles, Daddy?" There is an age gap, of course. He's 8 and I'm just had another birthday. Still he's a little love and I think the world of him. I also think that a little friendly competition acts as a spur and it's just the time when many of us need goals and aims. They don't have to be outlandish. Like the lady I was speaking to, if you are going out remember to put your hearing aid in; aim to take your tablets at the correct time on the right day. If you're going out with one of the Lunch Groups remember to take your teeth! All are useful and reachable goals which leave a feel-good factor. So onwards and upwards and best wishes for a healthy and happy New Year.

Witton Weavers Way

Yesterday, January 4th, was the first walk of the year for the U3A Fellwalkers. The walk had been planned by Dave Poole and Jan Hutt, but Dave had a heavy cold and so Mike Williams stepped into the breach!

The walk started at Ryal Fold, near Abbey village and took us over Withnell Moor and Wheelton Moor to Great Hill where we had splendid views in every direction (we were lucky to have clear blue skies and sunshine all day). Descending from the hill, we picked up the lovely wooded path through Roddlesworth and Tockholes. We explored the ruins of Hollinshead Hall and were fascinated by an old building where people went to take the waters.

A great area for walking, if a bit wet underfoot at times!

Royal Court

Members of Local History Group 9 stepped into the limelight for a recent tour of The Royal Court Theatre given by David Brown, an enthusiastic theatre volunteer/tour guide.

The theatre started life in 1826 as Cooke's New Circus and together with the Liverpool Philharmonic, is one of the oldest entertainment buildings in Liverpool. It was remodelled and became the Royal Court in 1881, although it never had Royal assent (Scousers taking liberties). After a fire which destroyed the theatre in 1933, it was rebuilt and reopened in 1938 and acquired by Howard and Wyndham, a London based group, in 1941. Many may remember visiting as children to see a panto in the fifties and many a pre-West End productions started its run on these famous boards. All the seats were removed in the late '80s and how many of us, through our children of course, remember the rock concerts and Rocky Horror extravaganzas that shook the rafters?

Liverpool Council eventually took it over but was sold for £1 to Liverpool Royal Court Theatre Foundation. Together with the people of Merseyside, the Foundation with a grant from The Lottery Fund restored the building to its former glory and it reopened in 2001 as a theatre with the stall seats replaced with tables and chairs so that theatre goers could dine prior to a performance. This initiative was only the start of an ongoing process to bring this beautiful Art Deco building back to its former glory. The Queen Mary Lounge, where we met, is in the original Art Deco style.

The tour of the theatre included a visit to the upper circle, for those who could stand the height, to view the new feature, "love seats," a number of double seats on back row, where else? Anyone up for booking one of these as a Valentine's Day treat?

We were taken backstage and shown the prop table with all the props laid out for the current production of "Scouse of the Rising Sun" but under pain of death and warned that under no circumstances to touch any item on the prop table as the actors only have seconds to pick the prop they need before going on stage, so moving them would be a BIG mistake.

David entertained us with numerous ghost stories connected with this theatre but we won't reveal any as this would spoil the tour for any other Formby LHG who want to experience this most enjoyable tour, as we would recommend that you too "step into the limelight". The tea and biscuits were enjoyable too!

Lighting Equipment

Various items of lighting equipment, described as "a whole lighting rig" for use on stage could not conveniently be stored by Formby U3A. This has now been handed over to Jim Crawford of United Reformed Church in Church Road, but is available for loan to U3A Groups. Anyone interested in availing themselves should make their own arrangements but please bear in mind the responsibility for its safe keeping and its prompt return in good condition.

Carols by Candlelight

Yet again another enjoyable Outings Group evening at the Palm House, Liverpool. Not your traditional carol concert, but with the Director Jay McWinen you can always expect something different. A mixture of carols, Christmas songs and other arrangements.

All three choirs performed brilliantly, considering they all sing separately under the direction of Jay. They rehearse all of the concert separately then come together on the night for the final performance. There were also performances by Hannah Prince, Danielle Graham and Jack Alistair. At the end of the concert, the audience were invited to join in with the Gondaliers song including all the actions, getting everyone into the festive spirit. A nice ending to the festivities was to drive along the river front taking in the Christmas lights.

Once again our thanks to Ann for organising the trip.

Panto Time

We were not able to find a volunteer for the usual musical Christmas show and there was a distinct possibility of there not being any show at all when Susan Birchall volunteered to arrange a performance of the Pantomime “Cinderella”.

The first problem she encountered was the unsuitability of the Holy Trinity Church Hall stage. It seems all patrons of the hall use the stage as storage area for their equipment which meant that movement on and off the stage was an obstacle race fraught with danger. The decision was made to transfer to the United Reformed Church and our thanks go to them for allowing us to do so.

The choice of Cinderella was an inspired one as it is probably the best loved and most classic panto of all. Director Susan worked tightly within all the strict panto parameters of audience participation, ad-libbing (at our age one is a tad forgetful) and fun for all. There was no messing with form and it ran on strictly panto lines. The script was not lacking in local references, bringing Formby into the world of pantomime and it contained a batch of fresh pantomime jokes one of which was heard on a Christmas night TV programme putting Formby U3A two weeks ahead of the game.

Although there was a cast of ten people there did not seem to be a division between stage and audience as the audience were very vocal giving the impression that it was a collective performance, which is the essence of pantomime. It therefore achieved all that it set out to do with the wonderful cast leading the way. Great credit should be given to Susan Birchall for ensuring that all was ready on the day, this being made very difficult as last minute replacements for some of the parts were required.

At the close of the performance the Chairman thanked Jim Crawford who was ever present at rehearsals to allow access to the hall, and also for his stage management and sound engineering abilities. He also recognised Susan's contribution in rescuing the 2016 Christmas show as, without her volunteering to do so, there would not have been one. He presented her with a bouquet of flowers as a token of gratitude for all her work for the Formby U3A
